It's Now "The Montagues" Gallery Plans 104 Shows A Year With New Screens

The Carmel Art Gallery has been gradually assuming proprietorship over John Montague as well as over his wife, Nellie, the official curator, until the public now confers as often with the one as with the other. "In the beginning," says Mrs. Montague, "my husband was merely tolerating my enthusiasm for art, but after a while he too, was caught in the honey." The requirements of the Association have grown to such proportions that both the Montagues eat and breathe art matters every waking moment, and it is now inconceivable that the project could be carried on by only one curator.

Mr. and Mrs. Montague are now planning to arrange 104 one-man shows a year, something that will be a record for an art gallery. This new program is made possible by the acquisition several months ago of removable partitions which enable the curators to hang from five to ten paintings of one artist at a time, without sacrificing the policy of exhibiting the work of the general membership in the larger gallery. By staggering the display dates of water-colors and oil paintings the Art Association will be able to have a one-man opening each week, two one-man shows at a time running continually throughout the year.

Kent Daniells Leads Off New 104 Show Policy

Kent Daniells of Pebble Beach is the artist given the honor of initiating the new Carmel Art Gallery program of presenting 104 one-man shows a year. Tomorrow morning at ten o'clock, when the doors open, a dozen of his frescoes painted on linen (landscapes, figures, still life and pure design) will be on exhibit in the partitioned section of the large gallery. Some of the pieces are eight by six feet in size, and most of them were used as sketches for big mural projects which he installed on walls in southern France and England. The paintings are unique because the texture and color of the linen background contribute to the effect, and Mrs. Nellie Montague reports that the quality is delightful.

Mr. Daniells, although an American, spent most of his life in France and England where he received his education, but he has been on the Peninsula since 1943. Two years ago he took his family to Pebble Beach where he is engaged in designing and decorating residences. He has recently sold some of his larger hangings to people who became acquainted with his work in France.

Zip, Canine Thespian, Beloved F.D. Mascot, Passes At Age Of 22

Zip is dead.

The Carmel Volunteer Fire Department's beloved and official canine mascot for uncounted years died Wednesday at the home of his mistress, Mrs. Edwin Warner. Zip's age was 22, comparable in dogdom to a man of well over the century mark. His fame came, however, not from his goodly years, or from his ancestry. The latter was perhaps without undue distinction, being — it was claimed — a combination of French Bull and Terrier.

No, Zip was known for no common heritage. Born beneath the stage of Carmel's historic Forest Theatre, Zip never outgrew the dramatic atmosphere of his origin. Even in puppy days his genius as an actor was evident. Who his tutor was these early days is a mystery. Whether he actually received special training is doubtful; more likely is it that Zip just picked up his peculiar sense of comedy and mock histrionics by observation of his equally young Carmel playmates—many a school boy and girl, now grown, who romped with Zip in the school yard. These will remember how Zip took full part in their games, how he shouldered a miniature wooden gun and marched in parade, saluted the flag in true mili-

Mrs. Laurel Reynolds Next Speaker For Audubon "Tours"

The second Audubon Screen tour, with colored motion pictures, will take place Thursday evening, November 20, in Sunset Auditorium, and will be given by Mrs. Laurel Reynolds of Piedmont, California. She calls her talk Fun with Birds and she says that "there is no mud too slimy, no cliff too steep, no brush too thick" for her to tackle in her search for the perfect opportunities to photograph birds from bushtits to condors. Those who have heard her delightful, informative running commentary to the films have been congratulating the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society on their success in getting her to speak in Carmel.

Dr. A. W. Angwin, chairman of the screen tour committee for the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society, yesterday announced that tickets for the remaining four events on the year's program may be obtained at the Abinante Music Stores in Carmel and Monterey for the price of $2.00. Single tickets may be bought at the box office before the lecture.

BREATHER

Several guest house proprietors who have been violating the city zoning ordinance limiting the number of paying guests to 3, have got in touch with City Attorney William Hudson this week, saying they are now conforming with the ordinance, and asking for an inspection. Attorney Hudson says thats fine. Anybody else who wants to get in line should get in touch with him immediately before the complaints are filed. "We only want to get those who refuse to conform."

Legion Auxiliary White Elephants Aid Wounded Vets

White elephants and other treasures will be on display at the American Legion Women's Auxiliary Rummage Sale to be held November 20, 21, and 22 from ten in the morning to five in the afternoon, in the American Legion Hall on Dolores near 8th Street.

"Where does the money from rummage sales go?" echoed Mausita Kreisler, secretary of the Women's Auxiliary, forestalling the usual question from the public. "Well, the many still hospitalized veterans are often forgotten men. Here are a few examples of the work done year after year to make the veteran realize that he is a vital part of the country for which he sacrificed his youth and health: small wishes fulfilled, personal robes and lap rugs supplied, as well as materials for handwork, and entertainment to while away the tedious and frequently pain-racked hours. This unit also adopts and supports at least one veteran in a hospital and does all it possibly can to eliminate his lost, unwanted feeling. There are many services that come under the heading of social welfare, for the families of deceased as well as invalided veterans."

In support of this work the community is now donating everything that can be spared, from white elephants to clothing, for next week's rummage sale, and collection points are: Carl & Chan's Garage; Gledhill's Radio Store; Gladys Johnston's Realty office; and Mission Cleaners. Chairman Ruth Andrews will call for donations in response to telephone calls at 1883-J.

All Saints' Annual Christmas Bazaar Set For Wednesday

All is in readiness for Annual Bazaar of the Women's Auxiliary of All Saints' Episcopal Church, which will take place in the Parish House, Monte Verde Street, near Ocean Avenue, next Wednesday, November 19, Mrs. Thomas Walters, in charge of production, said yesterday. The doors will open at 10 a.m. and the Bazaar will continue as long as there is anything left to sell.

The All Saints' Bazaar is always a wonderful place in which to find Christmas presents, Mrs. Walters points out. It is a real pre-view of Christmas windows.

"The Auxiliary specializes in aprons, but since it makes only 100, it is well to come early."

This year there will be a supermarket. Purchasers can find delicious home-made luncheons to eat then and there, or dinners, including home-made English steak-and-kidney pies and "trifle" (as celebrated in Dream Girl) to take home. There will also be delicious things to buy and store away for the holidays.

Other things for presents will be found on the tables of fancy work, knitted garments, baby's and children's clothing, handkerchiefs,

SUNSET AND WHITE SANDS

In the poetry column of this issue Dora Hagemeyer has channeled into words the upsurge of emotion many of us felt when we saw the magnificent sunset at the beach the other evening. How often she does this for us! I recall a poem she wrote last year in which she described, with the strength and economy that so often characterizes her work, the naked loveliness of a leafless sycamore against a wintry sky, expressing what many of us have felt at that familiar sight but do not have the skill, the sensitiveness, the talent to put into words. In White Sands of Carmel, her latest book, she has done us this gracious service again. She is Carmel's poet, expressing and interpreting the beauty of our countryside, our beach, our bay, our shoreline, our lanes and gardens, the very pines that grow down the center of Ocean Avenue. How fortunate we are! How many towns—even towns so favored by nature as ours—have their own personal poet laureate!

GONZALES - CARMEL HIGH FOOTBALL TEAMS CLASH AT BARDARSON FIELD

A fast and rugged Gonzales football team invades the Carmel campus this afternoon at 2:30 to do battle with the local Padres. The Gonzales Spartans have shown steady improvement during the season and are now regarded as being equal to the fine team from King City High School. Featuring a white version of Buddy Young in the person of left halfback Yates, the Spartans play a wide open brand of ball which keeps the defense jittery at all times. The culmination of each play is likely to find a Gonzales player hiding out near the sidelines and streaking behind the secondary to snag a touchdown pass. Against Pacific Grove the Spartans scored on the first play following the kickoff when the orange and black quarterback hid out and received a pass for six. Besides a fine scatback in Yates, the Spartans have a crunching fullback who scatters enemy tacklers when he blasts through the line.

To counter the Gonzales juggernaut the Padres will rely on the speed and deception of their light, fast backs, and the vicious charge of a hard-hitting line. On comparative scores Carmel should rate the favorite role, but recent improvement in the Gonzales play has made the game practically a toss-up.

Gonzales is chartering several busses and using all of their school busses to transport a rooting section which will number close to a thousand.

Remember the time for this important game—2:30 this afternoon at the Carmel High School field.

PADRES DOWN PACIFIC GROVE 32 TO 6 IN GRID CLASH

Outplaying a big Pacific Grove eleven in all departments, the Carmel High School varsity scored two touchdowns in the first half and three in the second to score their greatest victory over the Breakers. Dick Garguilo hit pay dirt after 7 minutes of play in the initial quarter, and picked up another score late in the quarter. Dick's second touchdown dash went for 60 yards and was engineered behind beautiful downfield blocking by Bob Rissell, Dick Sumner, and Owen Greenan. With a 13 point lead Carmel grew a bit overconfident and attempted a flat pass from their 15 yard line which Pacific Grove very obligingly intercepted and went for 6 big points. The half ended with Carmel leading 13 to 6 and Pacific Grove very much in the ball game.

Carmel received the second half kickoff and kept the ball until they had pushed across the P. G. goal. Slashing runs by Tom Handley and Bob Barry were largely instrumental in this touchdown drive, Tom finally going over from 5 yards out. The conversion was good and the Padres led 20 to 6.

Pacific Grove failed to make a scoring threat during the second half as the hard-charging Carmel linemen bottled up the Breaker backs. Carmel scored two more touchdowns in the final quarter. Frank Timmins blocked an attempted punt and Les Bracisco scooped up the bounding pigskin and carried it over for a score. The final Padre tally was manufactured by Bob Barry when he sliced off tackle from 8 yards out. Bob played an outstanding defensive game from his right halfback position, and his hard running picked up valuable yards in the touchdown drives.

It is difficult to single out individual performers in this game, as all the Carmel boys turned in good games. From an offensive standpoint, the running of Tom Handley and Dick Garguilo accounted for great chunks of yardage. The Padre line, anchored by Captain Rod Dewar, turned in one of their best efforts of the season and continually outcharged the heavy P. G. forwards.

Statistics show Carmel picking up 282 yards and 12 first downs, while Pacific Grove gained 48 yards and 2 first downs. Carmel lost 55 yards on penalties and P. G. lost 20.

Up from the lightweights to gain valuable game experience with the varsity were Jim Hare, Walter Frey, and Ted Lafleur. These boys turned in fine performances and more will be heard from them in later games.

PADRES COP DOUBLE GRID VICTORY AT GILROY

Sixty-five Carmel High School football players traveled to Gilroy last Friday night and came home with two hard-earned victories for their efforts. In the 6:30 preliminary game the hustling Carmel lightweights nosed out the Gilroy Babes by a 20-19 score. The Padre lights enjoyed a 20-7 halftime lead,

SHOOTS 350 POUND DEER

In a letter received from Staff Sergeant Thomas Harbolt who is in the American Zone in Bavaria, Germany, Harbolt states that on his last week end trip he bagged a red deer which dressed out at 350 pounds. This deer had eight points on each side of its horns making it resemble a moose.

Harbolt reports that the fishing is equally good in Bavaria. To date he has sent no fish stories but promises to mail pictures of this deer by way of verification.

PINE CONE EDGES P. G. 4-3 CARMEL LEGION WINS

Favored by perfect baseball weather, the Peninsula Winter League enjoyed a Sunday of baseball which was dominated by the two teams from Carmel. The Carmel Pine Cone found the right combination in their lineup and outlasted a good Pacific Grove team to cop the verdict, 4 to 3. Jim Hale toed the slab for the newspaper boys and turned in a fine performance. Jim sent 12 Merchant swingers back to the bench muttering to themselves because they couldn't get a loud foul off the tricky deliveries. Jenson and Ken Jones were the loud noises in the Pine Cone attack. Jenson connected for two blows in two attempts, one going for a triple. Ken produced the blow which broke up the ball game, when he smashed a single which went through the center fielders legs for a home run.

Playing for the Carmel Pine Cone were: Ken Jones, Harry Turner, Charley Nelson, Butch Rohrig, Orville Jones, Ray Jenson, Alex Mays, Dick Davison, and Jim Hale.

In the second game of the afternoon, the Carmel Legion packed too much power for the Mission Bakery which is manned by Salinas Junior College boys. The Legion got off winging in the second frame when Gordy Miyamoto hit a screaming double with the bags bulging. With a three run lead, Gordy coasted to his second victory of the current Winter League play. Miyamoto matched Hale's pitching record by striking out an even dozen and allowing 6 scratch hits. Vic Marconi contributed a telling blow for the Legion cause when he lashed a roaring double against the left field boards to drive in a brace of tallies.

Connor, young Salinas JC pitcher, showed exceptional speed for a youngster and his cracking fast ball kept the local hitters loose at the plate.

Playing for the Carmel Legion were: Howard Lockwood, Joe Nicholson, Gordy Miyamoto, Tom Perez, Ky Miyamoto, Vic Marconi, George Younkin, Bob Bell, Dick Steenerson, Phil Wettengel, Archie Miyamoto, Gene Ricketts and Rip Belvail.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Metropolitan Papers Please Copy!

Folks here were burned up over an article on Our Town I reprinted from a city paper. Made us sound like a bunch of "hicks" who whittled sticks and wore chin whiskers. (Last person I saw with chin whiskers was passing through on his way east.)

So I ran an editorial on how we spoke of city "slickers"—as overdressed wiseacres, only interested in making money, and spending it in night clubs.

Fact is, if we got to know each other we'd probably find we're not much different, underneath. City folks work hard; like to come home at night to their families; and relax with a moderate glass of beer, like we do.

From where I sit, it doesn't matter if you live in an apartment house or on a farm—work in an office or a cornfield—the American tradition of quiet home life, temperate habits, and neighborliness is common to all of us.

Carmel Will See Four New Players When 'Mrs. Moonlight' Opens Monday

Ted Kuster's latest production, Mrs. Moonlight, which opens at The Golden Bough Playhouse, Monday evening, November 17, is by the English playwright Benn Levy, and when produced in New York a few years ago, served to elevate to stardom Edith Barret, who has recently been seen on the Playhouse screen in The Late George Apley.

Reminiscent of the plays of Sir James Barrie, and of Maeterlinck, it tells the story of Sarah Moonlight, young, beautiful, gifted and adored, and of the strange curse brought upon her by her wish never to look any older. It is a story that is gripping and heartbreaking, but at the same time filled with charm and humor.

Directed by Lee Crowe, Mrs. Moonlight will introduce four new players to Peninsula audiences: Dorothy Warenskjold in the title role; Gwen Callum as her daughter, Jane Moonlight; Jean Woods as Minnie the scotch nurse; and Larry Rose as the grandson, Peter Moonlight.

Dorothy Warenskjold, who makes her home in Piedmont and spends her vacations in Carmel between singing engagements, is already well known to many Peninsula music lovers through her radio and concert appearances. Recently she was soloist on the Standard Hour, singing arias from Louise and Don Giovanni. At the conclusion of her engagement at The Golden Bough Playhouse she leaves for concerts in Ketchikan and Juneau, Alaska, as well as several northern Canadian cities. Her role in the Levy play calls for several songs.

Gwen Callum, who has recently moved from Southern California to Carmel brings a splendid background of Little Theatre experience to her ingenue role. She made her debut with the Portland Civic Theatre at the age of nine, and after graduating from Hollywood High School she appeared with The Troupers, The Westwood Village Players, and the recently organized Hollywood Tent Theatre. She had a featured role in the Columbia motion picture Sweet Genevieve.

Jean Woods was born in Glasgow, Scotland, and before coming to this country sang leading roles in many musical comedies and light operas with various amateur groups. She has appeared in several little theatre productions in Chicago and other mid-western cities. Her rich brogue makes her a natural for the Scotch nurse.

Larry Rose was formerly of the production staff of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios, where he took leading juvenile roles in several of the Studio Club productions.

The other members of the cast have already established themselves as favorites with Golden Bough audiences.

Norman Romwall, who plays the male lead as Mr. Moonlight, will be remembered for his fine work in The Male Animal, Joan of Lorraine, and most recently, as the leading man of Dan Totheroth's production of Distant Drums at the Forest Theatre.

Charlotte Bohn, who plays the role of Edith Jones, was seen to good advantage in Night Must Fall and Joan of Lorraine.

Gene Eplett, (Percy Middling) made his first appearance in The Time of Your Life followed by Joan of Lorraine and Dream Girl.

Nicky Le Feuvre, (Willie Ragg) who is presently appearing at The First Theatre made his Carmel debut in Joan of Lorraine and more recently as the Italian waiter, Luigi, in Dream Girl.

Settings for Mrs. Moonlight have been designed and executed by William S. Kappy, assisted by Ruth Cooke.

Production staff includes Helen Brazil as consultant on settings; Geraldine Ward, properties; Bob Ward, electrician; Cookie Crouch, wardrobe. Clines Nielson will supervise the complicated make-up and hair-stylings.

Dear Sir:

May I take this opportunity of commending the celebration of Hallowe'en this year in Carmel? It was undoubtedly organized with thought for the enjoyment of young people whose freedom was restricted (and there is no other real freedom) by consideration for the feelings and property of others.

In contrast to the observance here I noted at the approach to Los Gatos one of the statues of "the cats" on the highway had been mutilated by a disfiguring covering of paint. These statues were made by Robert Paine, a renowned sculptor who had given years to the study of wild life, the natural postures of animals in their untrammeled existence. They have been highly praised by visiting artists and critics, and though the "fifth columnist" who temporarily at least sabotaged their effectiveness may have been a passer-by, it is nevertheless a reflection on the lack of foresight and organization in the community fortunate enough to have these statues within their precincts not to have taken the necessary measures to safeguard them.

Hi Chatter

By PEGGY RIKER

This could well be called "Football Week" for Carmel High as she heads into her last games of the current season, both in the heavyweight and limited fields. Having defeated Gilroy to the tune of 39 to 13, and rolled over the Pacific Grove Breakers 32 to 6 in the traditional "big game" of the season, Carmel is heavily favored to capture the coveted CCAL title today when she meets Gonzales here at 2:30.

There is a definite atmosphere of work permeating the air with last minute crammers filling the study halls, and with good cause; report cards are just around the corner. Scheduled to come out Monday, grades are uppermost in everybody's minds, next to ever-present football.

Eighteen members of the student body are scheduled to attend an all CCAL conference in Monterey from ten to four tomorrow.

The following students represent Carmel High on various boards: Basil Allaire and Louise Harber, public relations; Biz Carr and Jennefer Lloyd, social committee; Edelen Cory and Betty Plaxton, G.A.A. committee; Shirley Elliott and Betty Hendricks, yell teams; Ann Fratessa and Christine Melvido, finance commission; Paul Warner and Janice Hatton, student government; Mike Monahan and Dick Weer, boys' athletics; Susan Moore and Kathie Von Meier, publications; Jim Moran and Peggy Riker, vandalism board.

The Red Cross, guided by its efficient president, Joy Wescott, is conducting a gift box campaign for needy children overseas. There is a display in the main office to remind students of the need and want of those in war devastated countries.

A program of special timeliness with the approach of the holiday season will be presented by the Carmel Woman's Club Book Section next Monday afternoon, November 17. Mrs. Herbert S. Upjohn will discuss the three greatest illustrators of children's books under the title "Rabbits, Babies and Runaway Horses."

Three biographies, all published in 1946: "The Secret Door" (life of Kate Greenaway); "Appreciation of Randolph Caldecott" and "The Tale of Beatrix Potter" will be used by Mrs. Upjohn explaining the individual style of each artist and his influence on others.

Mrs. Upjohn will also place on exhibit at this meeting her collection of the works of these three illustrators.

The meeting, under the chairmanship of Mrs. H. J. Powers, will be held in the Girl Scout House at 2 p.m. on Monday, November 17.

but the scrappy Gilroy lads came back in the 4th quarter and nearly tied up the contest. Failure to convert after their final touchdown cost the host team a deadlock. In the first quarter the Carmel sprouts went to work with a vengeance and scored the first time they were in possession of the ball. Keith Mackenzie racked up the 6 points on a slant off the Gilroy tackle. Shortly after the first tally, the Padres were again knocking at the touchdown door and a nice pass from Jim Hare to Pete Berg clicked. In the second quarter another aerial from Hare to Ted Lafleur paid off for 6 and the locals had a 20 point lead. The Gilroy Babes punched over for a score just before the half. During the second half a series of damaging penalties stymied all scoring efforts by the Padres and aided the Gilroy midgets in acquiring a brace of touchdowns. Practically all the Carmel boys saw action in the game and picked up valuable game experience.

The varsity fracas was a closer ball game than the 39-13 score indicates. Gilroy took the initiative and romped for a score after the opening kickoff. A sparkling pass play paid off for six points and the Padres found themselves on the short end of 7-0. Aroused by the Gilroy display of offense, the Padres took the ensuing kickoff and marched the length of the field for a score. The try for point failed and Gilroy led 7 to 6. The next time Carmel took over the ball they scored via a pass from Murrey Wight to Bob Rissell. Wight carried the ball deep into Gilroy territory and when their running threats were stopped, the locals changed tactics and took to the air for the score. Murrey Wight turned in one of the best games shown by a Padre back this season and was instrumental in all the subsequent Carmel scores. Tom Handley and Lew McCreery turned in some devastating running, while the passing and ball-handling of Byers and Warner gave the Gilroy defense a bad time. Rod Dewar and Bob Rissell played exceptionally outstanding ball in the line for the Padres, while all the reserves, who played most of the game, turned in creditable performances. A stubborn Gilroy line throttled the Carmel running game for most of the contest and the locals had to take to the air lanes for most of their yardage.

Everybody on the Carmel roster saw plenty of action in this practice game and came out of the contest in good shape for their two remaining league contests.

Dr. von Urban's Talk Draws Capacity House

The lecture which Dr. Rudolf von Urban gave last Monday evening at the Playhouse for the benefit of the Cooperative for American Remittances to Europe drew a capacity house, and many generous contributions were made for the purpose of sending food packages to Viennese friends and relatives of Peninsula residents.

Dr. von Urban, a close associate of Sigmund Freud in his youth, spoke on psychosomatic conditions which have been cured by an understanding of the power of the unconscious. He concluded by saying, "It is love that protects people from getting into trouble, and it is hunger for love which often leads to delinquencies and to much so-called illness. For those who crave love, the only remedy is to give it, and when they give they draw in return their own share. With adequate love a human being is in a better position to combat physical ailments and many times can even cure them."

The use of the Playhouse was donated for the benefit of C.A.R.E. and all the expenses, amounting to $85, were paid by Dr. von Urban. The ticket sales plus contributions brought in the sum of $274. Of this amount $43 was allocated to federal taxes. Mrs. Caroline Pickit, chairman of the committee in charge, has turned over $231 to the national organization in New York. Mrs. Pickit, Mrs. Mast Wolfson and Mrs. D. L. James are still interested in receiving the names and addresses of needy Viennese who may receive some of the benefit of this fund.

Devi Dja and her Bali Java Dancers, celebrated troupe discovered by Leopold Stokowski, will play at Sunset Auditorium, 8:30, Tuesday night only, Nov. 18, under the management of Margaret Poole, coming direct from a series of soldout performances in New York and other eastern cities. Native musicians provide accompaniment on temple bells, gongs and drums.

They offer a new program with request numbers from previous repertoire. This is their farewell American tour, as they return to the Dutch East Indies next April.

On the program will be Hanuman, dance of the sacred monkey, Chakal Lele, Papuan jungle dance, Blue Lotus, trance ritual of Bali, Djaran Kopang, comic hobby horse dance of Java, Temptation of Buddha, inspired by frescoes in the famous Temple of Borobudur, Srimpi, court dance of ancient Java, Chalon Arang, conflict between good and evil, Piring, plate dance of Sumatra, Harvest Dance, from the Borneo rice festival, Buayan, cradle fantasy of a Padang village, Kombong, Javanese flower dance, Bedoyo, in which the statue of love comes to life, Garuda, legend of the eagle, Legong, Balinese temple dance, and Ketjak, ballet of exorcism, in which Devi Dja portrays a bird, a deer and a lion.

Sanitary District Buys New Tractor

The Carmel Sanitary District will shortly be the owner of a $1,874 Ford Tractor with "attachments," since the board, meeting in regular monthly session Monday night, authorized the purchase.

One "attachment" will be a cultivator for the filter beds at the treatment works; the other, a loader for filling in ditches.

Other business of the meeting was the passage of an ordinance establishing the new offices of the Sanitary District in the Ricketts Building, San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth Avenues.

SUNSET SCHOOL NOTES

Mrs. Ann Uzzell's Fifth Grade.

We have a Spelling Clothes Line
To show how much we know,
To get a 100, we all try
So we can hang our clothes to dry.
Of course they're only cards of ours
But each is cut and colored fine.
It looks like coat or dress of blue
Or pants or shirt of other hue.
So don't forget to dot the i
Because if you miss a word
You can't hang your duds to dry!

—Priscilla Clark.

I have been in Sunset about six weeks. I have enjoyed it very much. I came from a school in Kansas City, Missouri. I like the boys' playfield best. In class I like reading, social studies, science, and our spelling clothes line contest. I am very sorry I have to leave. I'm glad I was here for our Hallowe'en party. —Mickey Carr.

Lee McGuckin had attended Sunset School for five years. On October 20 he had to tell his friends good-bye because his family moved to Yreka, California. We were sorry to see him leave.

—Jimmy Hallet, Eugene Mullnix.

My hobby is collecting horse and dog models. I like to set up a corral, and put the horses in it. I have thirty horses and twenty dogs in my collection.

—Thomas Bunn.

John Stickler transferred from our school on October 31. He will attend a school in Reno, Nevada. We hope he will like it there. We will miss him at Sunset.

—Craig Chapman.

On October 25, the U.S.S. Columbus anchored in Monterey Bay to participate in the Navy Day celebration weekend. This is a heavy cruiser, and carries more than 1000 sailors. It was built in Massachussetts and has never been in battle. The ship was named after Admiral Christopher Columbus, and can go 30 knots an hour.

The ship was opened for public inspection during its three day stay, and more than 7000 people visited the ship. Landing barges were used to take the people out to the ship. Lunch was served at noon, and I was invited to have lunch along with several hundred others. It was fun to eat with the sailors.

There were many parties as well as football and basketball games planned for the entertainment of the sailors. I am sure they enjoyed their stay.

—Michael Carr.

Mrs. Edna Lockwood's third grade gave a Junior Red Cross play on October 24 for the student body meeting. The play was called "Little Lost Gift Boxes." The announcer was Victoria Bivens.

The play was about ten Christmas boxes which fell off the table, and didn't get their tags on. They were not sent overseas to make some child happy for Christmas. It ended all right because children from overseas came and got them.

The ten children who represented the little lost gift boxes were: Bog Leidig, Pamela Dixon, Dennis Toplin, Beverly Prior, Bob Seipel, Marellyn Douval, David Tabiasen, Teresa Dorman, Bill Johnston and Elizabeth Snite.

The children from overseas were: Italy, Mike Koroslev; Greece, Walter Marx; Yugoslav, Ann Buchanan; England, Hampton Stewart; Poland, Geraldine Hawkswood; France, Sharon Nielsen; China, Dianne Weaver; Norway, Patty Petty; Belgium, Ina Adams; Holland, Julia Wilson. —Renee Vallon.

Mrs. Marjorie McCausland's First Grade.

I know what the horizon is. It is where the sky touches the water. One day we went in a boat out to the horizon. —Howard Wright.

Pets are the best thing anybody can have. They are always your friend. —Sue Mitchell.

Once when I was little I found some money. But I lost it. I guess I was too little to find money. —Sharron Wilson.

I always want to be a cowboy. I thing Roy Rogers is the best cowboy in the world. So I'm getting ready to be a cowboy now. —Arthur Sale.

If you come to school, you can always learn something.

The Time Has Come . .

By KIPPY STUART

The time has come to think of daffodils, tulips and the myriad bulbs that are lying asleep awaiting the magic touch of Spring. You do not need the perfect garden for bulbs; you do not need a vast territory. The tinest strip of earth will reward you with weeks of happy color if now—and through November—you give one hour's thought to bulbs.

Daffodils are the easiest of all bulbs to grow. Once you place them in the ground your work is over and year after year they will reward you with a galaxy of color. Like Old Man River, daffodils go on and on, reproducing, multiplying. They have no pests and gophers will not destroy them.

The only tricky thing about daffodils is the manner of planting. There are pages of instructions on how to proceed, but those instructions are for the perfectionists. We are only casual gardeners and a few simple rules will do the trick. Stay away from manure. Stay away from fresh compost. A scoop of sand is your best bet. Mix sand in soil and stir soil well a foot deep. Place bulb upright about six inches below the surface and be sure the bulb lies in a flat (not a pointed) hole. Get up and dust your hands. You are through. Your children — your grandchildren will enjoy and benefit from your one hour's work.

We invite you to make use of our complete

Leadership Is Now In American Hands, Says English Forum Speaker

With the announced topic of The British Empire in the Modern World, Mr. Randolph Churchill, opening the Town Hall series on the Monterey Peninsula last Friday night in Sunset Auditorium, rather discussed the British and the American Empires in the Modern World—two empires, not one. He declared the United States and its possessions form the greatest empire the world has ever seen, and he could see no reason why Americans should reject the words empire and imperialism, for the manner of developing an empire and carrying on its affairs determines whether it is good or bad.

With good natured irony, even playful banter, but always forthright and definite in making his points, he sketched the role of the British Empire in the development of ideas of government and liberty during the past thousand years, and the attitude toward England for two centuries, of Americans "who read the Chicago Tribune and believe George III is on the British throne instead of George VI." The hardy Pilgrims—Englishmen—built a great empire and passed on to the new world the ideals of law and liberty that grew up in England. Now it is necessary for this country and its people to take up the work of maintaining law, liberty, and peace in the world, for no longer can England carry it alone.

He denied the charge that the British Empire is done, that it is nearing the end of its long and glorous history; true, India is gone, Burma is lost, Egypt has turned against England, but there are still Canada, larger than the United States, there are Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Rhodesia, all in close harmony with the mother country, and Britian is still the ancient heart of the empire, the power station of this group of free nations. Five times in five centuries Great Britian stood against a coalition of powers against her, said Mr. Churchill; for eighteen months in two world wars she stood up to face the German threat before help came from the United States to defeat the menace against liberty.

"Now we can't do the job by ourselves," he continued. "The main job has fallen into your lap, the leadership is in your hands. By pooling our resources, by a revived faith in liberty, the two empires can assure the peace and freedom of the world." It is the bounden duty of the English-speaking nations, he insisted, to pass on to their children and their children's children the free world inherited from the fifteen or twenty generations who developed and passed it on. The United States has a great work to do in preserving freedom for the world.—L.L.T.

LADY— YOU DID IT!

This is the season of the year when those annoying fuse "blow-out" may occur in the home. There are several reasons for these "pesky" mishaps and there are a few precautions you can take to avoid them.

Take these simple precautions and you will avoid trouble this fall and winter:

1. Handle plugs and cords carefully. Tighten up loose screws and nuts in plugs and on appliances.
2. Repair or replace old and frayed cords on all appliances. Check your cords now.
3. Keep spare fuses on hand. It takes only a few seconds to replace a burned-out fuse.

You will be home more hours a day during the coming cold and rainy season thus giving your lamps, radios and appliances longer hours of service. Give them all some care and repair servicing now.

TAKE CARE of plugs that start spittin' like a kitten. It is advance notice that a wire is about to burn through or a plug terminal is about to giveway.

BEWARE of jerking appliances about by the cord. This loosens terminal connections and causes short circuits and blowouts.

BEWARE of using too many appliances at one time on a branch circuit. This overloads circuits and causes blowouts.

TAKE CARE to have a supply of fuses of the right size on hand. 15 ampere fuses (not 20 or 30 amperes) are right for lighting circuits.

Buy a supply of fuses from your dealer today.

Have You Read . . . ?

Lady Gregory's Journals, Edited by Lennox Robinson (The MacMillan Company)

BY SHANE RYAN

Mary Colum, wife of the Irish poet, Padraic Colum, devotes an entire chapter to Lady Gregory in her recent autobiography, Life and the Dream. In writing of the women who supported so ardently the cause of the Nationalists in the Irish Rebellion of 1916, Mary Colum says of Lady Gregory, "it may be that history will decide that the most remarkable was Lady Gregory—in fact, she very likely was one of the most remarkable women of her time."

And Lennox Robinson, editor of Lady Gregory's Journals whose biography of Lady Gregory is about to appear, writes in his forword to the Journals that he has deleted none of the "'hits, cuts and thrusts'—a phrase she liked to use—the sharpest of which are directed against myself."

But both Mary Colum and Lennox Robinson agree that Lady Gregory, despite the fact that she was "aloof, condescending and snobbish," was "high-minded and loved all fine and noble things as people brought up on fine literature are likely to do."

Lady Gregory began her Journals in 1916 after the drowning in the Lusitania of her nephew, Sir Hugh Lane. Their first purpose appears to have been a recording of the complicated negotiations she undertook to achieve the return to Dublin of the Lane Pictures. From then until her death in 1930 she faithfully recorded each day an account of the many projects which kept her occupied.

In editing the Journals Mr. Robinson was obliged to abridge drastically, reducing the spate of words from 500,000 to 140,000. Of the remaining forty-two volumes he writes wistfully that he hopes her heirs will deposit them in the Irish National Library "for others to read and blame me."

Lady Gregory in writing her Diaries assigned herself various roles. Primarily she saw herself as a beggar. She was begging constantly for influence as well as for money, for the Abbey Theatre, for the National Cause, for the return of the Lane Pictures to Dublin, and for peace within the warring factions of Ireland, and the restoration of all forms of Irish culture. Her second role was that of a theatre director and her third, a playwright.

Mr. Robinson who was co-director with her in the Abby Theatre sees her in a different light. The dominant factors in her life, in his opinion, were Coole Park, Gort, the 40,000 acre estate in Galway, left her by her husband, Sir William Gregory, the Abby Theatre and her writing for it, and the Lane Pictures. He has summed these up in separate chapters and added three chapters under the headings of Politics, Persons and Books, and Odds and Ends. All the Diary entries concerning these subjects are put together instead of being arranged in yearly sequence.

All the chapters make interesting reading. Her descriptions of beautiful Coole, the record of her struggles to keep it intact for her grandson, the eldest child of her son Robert, a promising young painter before he was killed in Africa in the first World War, the heartbreak following her decision to sell it and finally her joy when it was purchased by the National Government with the promise that its woods and streams would be kept intact. Even then she could not leave it but was able to lease the house with a few acres and live in it until she died.

Her patriotism was deep rooted. She spent years searching out the Irish folk-lore in cottages and farmhouses, giving it expression in her plays, The Workhouse Ward, The Rising of the Moon, and Spreading the News. In 1900 she became interested in Gaelic, learned the language, started classes among her tenantry and put together translations of the old sagas such as Cuchulain of Muirthemne, Gods and Fighting Men, and Poets and Dreamers, a translation of Douglas Hyde's plays and bits of Kiltarten folk-lore. Later came Saints and Wonders, The Kiltartan History Book, and Visions and Beliefs. She did not mix actively in politics but she writes in her Diary: "I am a 'rebel'—with the Nationalists all through—more than they knew or my nearest realized. And the heartbreak of the Civil War." Although she was a Protestant, she loved the people and the people were Catholic.

In the chapter headed Persons and Books, Mr. Robinson has condensed all Lady Gregory's comments on the people she saw each day, and the books she read. She was not what is called "a good mixer," but she was intensely loyal to the people she knew and worked with whether she liked them personally or not. Witness her valiant fight in defense of Lennox Robinson in what was called "the Carnegie row." Mr. Robinson headed the Committee for administering the Carnegie Library Fund. He had published an article in Tomorrow, an unimportant little paper, to which the Committee took violent exception. Lady Gregory entered the fracas in defense of Mr. Robinson's right to freedom of expression, although she did not think much of the article herself and was not always in accord with Mr. Robinson in Abbey Theatre matters. It appears that she blamed him for much of the trouble the Abbey Theatre Players met in their first tour of the United States. No mention is made of this trip in the Journals, perhaps because Lady Gregory published an account of it earlier. She accompanied the Players and made some influential friends here, notably President Theodore Roosevelt, Major Putnam of the publishing house, and Mrs. Jack Gardner of Boston. During the years when she needed money for some emergency she dashed off an article, a book review or perhaps some poems and sent them to Putnam who always responded with a tidy checque. During this tour, also, she learned to speak in public. Previously she had refused to do this, saying once in London at a gathering of literary highlights when she was urged to make a talk, "I never speak except through the beautiful voices of our players in our little theatre." But she found her voice in America.

Her great friend was William B. Yeats. Others who came into the Persons and Books chapter are Bernard Shaw, Sir Horace Plunkett, Countess Markievicz, George Wyndham, James Stephens, Frank Gallagher and many more.

For this reader the really fascinating chapter is that on the Abby Theatre. This is the chapter Mr. Robinson found most difficult to edit because he was an integral part of it. He, Lady Gregory and W. B. Yeats were the directors. Later when Lady Gregory had wheedled a subsidy from the Government it demanded a representative on the Board. But as Mr. Robinson comments, "may be truly said that the Abbey Theatre made Lady Gregory" and "Lady Gregory was the Abbey Theatre." She was an excellent producer of plays, a merciless critic of players. She loved energy and fine speaking. She loved the "beautiful voices" of Barry Fitzgerald, Sara Allgood, Arthur Sinclair, Maureen Delaney and F. J. McCormick. And their voices were truly beautiful. I heard these players in their visit to New York in the '20's and listened enraptured to their musical tones. I realized then that the Irish cultivated voice is one of the most beautiful in the world.

The beginnings of the Abbey Theatre were the same as that of so many "little theatre" movements in this country. No money, only an ideal and dogged determination on the part of Lady Gregory and her associates. The Abbey Players picked up what was left of the Irish National Theatre around the end of the century, Miss Horniman, an Englishwoman and patron of the arts, gave them a building and the struggle began. They had the fine plays of Synge, Yeats, Dunsany, Lady Gregory, Shaw and later on, of Sean O'Casey and others. They had a distinguished group of actors dedicated to the Cause. But

CARMEL SUNSET
November 4th, 1947

And suddenly through the window-space
The world was an enchanted place—

Close to the tree-line parallel,

So that the green of further sky
Back of the sea was seen to lie;

And as the great sun lowered through
Into the space between the two

The world, the common world became
A city steeped in violet flame,

Where colour, light and form appeared
Each through the other shot and sheered;

And then, as though this be not all,
A luminous shower began to fall:

Fine flakes of gold and dust of gold
Slanting the air a thousand-fold,

Sifting as softly through the trees
As dross of weeds upon the breeze.

The roofs turned purple in the light;
The wet road glistened pinkly bright;

And in the east a symbol hung:
A bounding rainbow, arched and flung

From hill to hill, a shining bridge
Burning from ridge to darkening ridge.

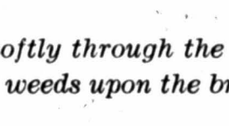
From east to west to east I gazed
By breath of consternation dazed,

As one whom beauty must appall
For helplessness to hold it all—

As one to whom such joy appears
As clamps the voice and claims the tears;

All in a moment there it shone
The world from which all grief had gone.

—DORA HAGAMEYER.



SILENT RIVER

You are not real, little river;
You are a dream—
And your glassy waters gleam
With a light of some far paradise.
Here shadows quiver
With a soft beauty strange to mortal eyes.

You are not real, little river—
Am I a dream too,
Or a picture in a frame with you,
Gazing into your waters forever?

—CHARLES BALLARD.

G.O.P. Women Elect Officers

With Mrs. Peggy Porter Marquand presiding as organizing group chairman, approximately 200 women met at the Republican Women's luncheon to elect officers at the Hotel La Ribera on Friday, November 8.

At the speakers' table were Mrs. C. C. Baker, membership chairman of the Northern Division. Mrs. Baker stated that it is the duty of Republican women to combat Communism. Mrs. Jesse Williamson, national committee woman for California, who has just returned from Philadelphia, spoke on the meeting of national members to make plans for the Republican National Convention to be held in that city next year.

Mrs. Williamson said the Republicans must indeed have "the hide and the strength of elephants." The three campaign issues, according to Mrs. Williamson are: the Taft Hartley Bill; the high price of food; and the Marshal Plan. Pominent among the dark horses referred to by Mrs. Williamson was Governor Earl Warren.

The following officers were elected: Mrs. Karl Hisgin, president; Mrs. Fenton Grigsby, first vice president; Mrs. W. A. Buckner, second vice president; Mrs. Lowell Bowhay, secretary; Mrs. Rodney Mason, treasurer; Mrs. Durbin Sayers, membership chairman.

Council Of Church Women

Thirty-three complete outfits of clothing for school children, two large miscellaneous clothing bundles, and thirty-three shoe boxes with shoes and small school supplies were packed last Friday afternoon in large cartons by officers of the Monterey Peninsula Council of Church Women, led by Mrs. Ramsey Benson, president. These were contributed by the women's societies of the various churches to be sent to the needy children of Europe, where they will be distributed under direction of Church World Service, an American organization formed three years ago for this work. All Saints' Church members contributed thirteen clothing bundles and a number of boxes, and Wayfarer Church women provided twelve bundles and a number of boxes.

The offering to provide hot lunches for undernourished European children was $39.35; the offering taken at the table for the American Mission to Lepers was $26.45.

The devotional and dedication service held in the Methodist Church in Pacific Grove by the C.C.W. was given by Mrs. Benson, Mrs. Peggy Mill, Mrs. Hazel Silver, Mrs. Gertie Walters, Mrs. Frances Long, Mrs. Guy Jordan, and Mrs. Loren Smith. Presenting the purposes and work of U.N.E.S.C.O. were Mrs. John W. Dickinson as leader, Mrs. Lena Landis, Mrs. D. E. Dixon, Mrs. Arthur Marshall, Miss Mabel Hoffman, and Mrs. Jordan. The World Day of Prayer was announced for February 13, to be observed by the Council at All Saints' Church.

At the business meeting at the lunch table Mrs. Benson appointed Mrs. Blanchard Steeves, Dr. Letitia Snow, and Miss Effa Spencer a committee to write to the national government authorities urging all possible support to the United Nations in its actions to establish peace. The Council voted to continue the work of salvaging clothing to send to Europe, and Mrs. Walter Johnston of Carmel was appointed chairman for this work, with sub-chairmen, for Pacific Grove, Mrs. Lena Landis, and for Monterey, Mrs. Stuart Kerr.

they had almost no following and very little money. Never once, however, did they compromise to court popularity. They kept the faith. Once a production of Kathleen ni Houlahan had been announced and tickets sold. Lady Galway coming in from Galway for one of the last rehearsals found her co-directors had substituted a play of her own because of the absence of the actress who was to play Kathleen. She would have none of it. They would keep the promise they had made if she had to play the part herself. And she did. "What was wanted," she writes in her Diary, "but a hag and a voice. But my heart sinks low, remembering the words will be the chief difficulty . . . feeling very nervous about it and wishing Marie Walker would suddenly appear . . . though I think I would be disappointed if she did." It was this stability and fine integrity that, little by little, attracted the Dubliners until in a few years the Abby Theatre was the centre of Irish art and culture.

The Journals end with this line: "I sometimes think my life has been a series of enthusiasms." In abridging the Diaries, Mr. Robinson has deleted none of the enthusiasms, in fact, he has added an undercurrent of enthusiasm of his own. As writer, playwright and actor he lives in vivid imagination the scenes Lady Gregory has recorded, giving the reader an exciting enthusiasm as well. If you like biographies you will have a fine time with "Lady Gregory's Journals" and doubtless with the biography of Lady Gregory which Mr. Robinson states will complement it.

SHOWS KODACHROME SLIDES

Mr. and Mrs. C. Edward Graves entertained friends at their home at Camino del Monte and Guadelupe Sunday evening, when Mr. Graves gave a preview of his most recent Kodachrome color slides. During his extensive vacation last summer at Crater Lake, the Tetons and Yellowstone National Park, he spent many hours obtaining the right effects for his 2x2 slides which are part of his Colorful America series. These he supplies to clubs and schools throughout the country, some for nature lovers generally and others for students of geology. Most of his slides show artistry as well as examples of geological phenomena.

You will know why California is considered the fashion center of the world when you see the California designed and made suits in MAXINE'S on Dolores. MAXINE'S has suits for all occasions from classicly cut Glenn Plaids in black or brown to dressmaker suits in a wonderful worsted crepe of virgin wool by O'Rossen, and all of them are beautifully cut and skillfully made. The prices range from $49.50 up. The wool crepe worsted suits boast a fabric that has a beautiful appearance and a beautiful character, for the high twist of the worsted yarn makes the material exceptionally resistant to wrinkles and creases.

LEOTA TUCKER, who for twenty years has had her photographic studio in Carmel, is now at home and at work in her MISSION TRAILS STUDIOS on Mission Street between Fifth and Sixth. The studios, (there are several of them, with their sunlit rooms and their flower-filled rock patios) make beautiful backgrounds for the Leota Tucker photographs. Mrs. Tucker specializes in color work, as well as black and white photography, and if you make an appointment soon your photographs will be ready before Christmas. THE MISSION TRAILS STUDIOS offers a special Christmas rate of ten dollars for a color miniature and a transparency or ten dollars for three black and white portraits. Call 139-J and make your appointment with Leota Tucker, at THE MISSION TRAILS STUDIOS.

A turkey from TURNEY'S MEAT MARKET in the CARMEL DRIVE-IN MARKET on Dolores and Eighth is a good idea at any time, but particularly desirable about Thanksgiving time. For the last several years Mr. Turney has been receiving turkeys of unquestioned excellence from the same people, who raise them with care. These are San Joaquin Valley turkeys and they come in sizes from twelve to twenty-five pounds. You may have half a turkey if you wish, or a specially raised fryer or roasting chicken if you prefer that. Call 246 and prepare Mr. Turney to prepare your Thanksgiving bird.

Capable of a wide range of combinations are the Tommie coats and pajama sets you'll find in PUTNAM & RAGGETT. In a fine cotton chambray come the Tommiesets, consisting of the Tommie coat which you may wear with or without pajamas and the matching pajamas. This Tommie coat will turn up as night wear, as brunch coat, as lounging robe or smock. The sets come in a bewildering array of sizes. There is a set of tiny sizes, one of regular sizes and one of tall, so whatever your girth or height you'll be well fitted in a Tommieset. Separate pajamas from the same house come in a Crown tested rayon in a modified Paisley design in yellow.

Two Peninsula authors whose works add lustre to the children's bookshelves will be honored guests at tea at THE CARMEL BOOKSELLERS in the Chop House on Lincoln and Sixth this afternoon, Friday, at four, and the public is most cordially invited. The two guests are Miriam Clark Potter whose book, Hello, Mrs. Goose is a recent publication and Anne Fisher whose book, Bears, Pirates and Silver Lace, is not just off the press, but etremely interesting anyway and worthy of comment for Children's Book Week, which week this is. Allison Stilwell will not be among those present this Friday, but she will be guest of honor at THE BOOKSELLERS for tea on Sunday, November 23, at the first of a series of weekly Sunday gatherings.

There are apparently no things made of canvas which the MONTEREY AWNING COMPANY in Seaside cannot either manufacture or repair. If you call 20475 Monterey or go out to 938 Fremont Street in Seaside you will find Mr. Stanton who can make, mend or repair anything of canvas. Garden furniture is one of the specialities of the firm, which will in addition make tarpaulins of any size.

Weaver-Harrington Engagement

Mrs. Robert C. Weaver of Carmel Highlands yesterday announced the engagement of her daughter, Patricia C. Addison, to George F. Harrington, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Harrington of West Orange, New Jersey. During the war Patricia's fiance was known as Corporal Harrington, for he was with the Second Division Pacific of the U. S. Marine Corps, and served in Japan for nearly a year. He is now studying at St. Peters College, Jersey City, New Jersey. Patricia is a senior at Wells College, Aurora, New York, but during her vacation last summer she was at the reception desk at Highlands Inn and made many friends there. No date has been set for the wedding, but it will probably take place next fall.

Woman's Club Bridge Tournament

The third session in the duplicate bridge tournament sponsored by the Carmel Woman's Club was held Monday, November 10 at the Girl Scout House.

Twelve tables were in play during the evening. The winning team was Mrs. Elmer Brown and Miss Pat Willis of Salinas, with Mrs. Irene Connor and Mr. A. H. MacDonald runners up.

Mrs. Louise Grigsby and Mrs. J. E. Abernethy are co-chairmen for the tournament. There will be two future sessions in this series: Monday, November 17, and Monday, November 24.

Visitor From New Jersey

Mrs. Eufemia Neroda arrived last Saturday from Elizabeth, New Jersey to spend the winter with her son, Edward K. Neroda and his family. Mrs. Neroda had a delightful trip by plane and was greeted in San Francisco by her son, his wife, and most important of all, little Edward whom she had never seen. It was her first plane ride and she found it most enjoyable.

Michael McClure, the son of Mrs. Mariquita Brey, was taken to the Peninsula Hospital this week and found to be suffering from pneumonia.

Bazaar Nets $600

Preceding its general meeting November 3 the Carmel Woman's Club held a bazaar and lunch at the Girl Scout House, with aprons, children's clothing and other articles, most of which had been made by Club members during the past several weeks, on sale.

A delicious turkey and apple pie lunch was served at eleven thirty and twelve thirty to approximately one hundred and fifty people.

Miss Amy Campbell, general chairman, Mrs. Anne Knox and Mrs. Kathryn Lansdowne in charge of the Bazaar, Mrs. Annie Vaughan who presided over the kitchen, Miss Flora Hartwell who handled the flower sale, and the many other women who gave of their time and effort for the success of the bazaar and lunch, have brought the proposed new club house nearer realization by approximately $600.

Women Voters Conference

Mrs. Edmond Sullivan, president of the Monterey Peninsula League of Women Voters, Mrs. Nelson Miles Leoni, Miss Orre Haseltine, and Mrs. Frances Ballard, members of the executive board, motored to San Francisco Wednesday to attend the northern conference of the organization, which considered important public questions with a view to developing League policy.

Mrs. W. G. Leary, Jr., of San Francisco spoke in favor of the renewal of reciprocal trade agreements and of an international trade organization as means of promoting economic stablity and peace in the world. The LWV regional conference for the southwestern states held in Los Angeles October 28 and 29 on the subject of international trade pledged the organization's support for world economic cooperation as a means of assuring peace. Delegates also agreed that emergency aid to Europe must be given, but that long range plans to promote trade are essential. A discussion of cross-filing was also on the agenda of the San Francisco conference.

University Women Meet

The Monterey Branch of the American Association of University Women will meet Thursday, November 20 at 8 p.m. at the House of Four Winds in Monterey. Dr. Margaret Swigart will discuss her trip to Europe last summer when she attended a women's medical conference.

Three of the study sections of the Association held meetings during the past week.

WOMEN VOTERS VERSUS WALT DISNEY

Walt Disney has completely retracted his statement branding the League of Women Voters as "a Commie front organization" which he made before the House Un-American Activities Committee on October 24. Mrs. Edmond Sullivan, president of the local League, this week received a copy of Mr. Disney's letter sent to the committee on November 3, in which he says:

'Since returning to my office in Burbank, California, I have had an opportunity carefully to review my files pertaining to this subject matter. I can now definitely state that while testifying as above I was confused by a similarity of names between two women's organizations. I regret that I named the League of Women Voters when I intended to name the League of Women Shoppers."

Mr. Disney requested the House Committee to make the requisite amendment to his testimony and enclosed with his letter photostatic copies of the letters he had received — in 1941 — from various units of the League of Women Shoppers, to support his correction.

KAY LAWLOR, BOOK SHOPPER

Kay Lawlor has just begun a book shopping service. She intends to make a specialty of tracing down rare and out-of-print editions, especially for collectors. Because of her past contacts with book dealers she has been rendering this service for her friends for a long time, and when last week she decided to operate professionally it turned out that there was already a strong demand upon her. She lives on the corner of 5th and Carpenter in the little white-fenced house that is called Pine Nuts.

BOOK WEEK PUTS BOOKS INTO ACTION

Book Week like all good holidays, is not just for children. From 16-22 November various civic groups, as well as schools and libraries, will join in celebrating the importance of books in the lives of people of all ages everywhere.

True, special honor is given to the stories of childhood, for the books that children read today help broaden the minds of tomorrow's citizens. Parents, as citizens of today, go with your child to the book store and library to help him select the best among the new books. Take them home to read aloud that all the family may enjoy these "Books for the world of tomorrow".

The Harrison Memorial Library is proudly presenting a large and carefully chosen selection of new books to the children of Carmel.

There are picture books; stories just for the fun of it, which include adventure, mystery, humor; informative books on the world of nature, and on practical sciences; books about other lands; biographies and vocational books; reference books which include two new encyclopedias.

The new books which do not go into circulation until Saturday, November 22, will be on display all week for both parents and children. A special display will be made of books of interest to the High School age, as Frank Owens' collection, Teen-age Sports Stories; A Date for Diane, by Elizabeth Headley; The Mystery of Flight 24, by Alan Gregg; Sports and Games, by Harold Keith.

All the classes of Sunset School will visit the library during Book Week.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Mortals and Immortals" is the subject of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon for Sunday, November 16. The Golden Text is taken from John: "He that loveth his life shall lose it; and he that hateth his life in this world shall keep it unto life eternal" (12:25).

Included in the sermon are the following citations:

Romans: "For if ye live after the flesh, ye shall die: but if ye through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live" (8:13).

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The real man being linked by Science to his Maker, mortals need only turn from sin and lose sight of mortal selfhood to find Christ, the real man and his relation to God, and to recognize the divine sonship. . . Christ presents the indestructible man, whom Spirit creates, constitutes, and governs" (p. 316).

Lynda Sargent, Varda In New Book By Henry Miller

In his new book, Remember to Remember, just published by New Directions Press, Henry Miller expresses his gratitude to two local friends who influenced him to make his home in the Big Sur country.

"To Jean Varda I owe a great debt—for the discovery of the Big Sur country where I have made my home since 1944 . . . If it was Varda who introduced me to the Big Sur, it was Lynda Sargent who made it possible for me to live here. But Lynda is a character whose portrait I am reserving for a special volume."

Gen. Chapman New Chairman Of Carmel Unincorp.

Major-General E. G. Chapman was elected president of Carmel Unincorporated at the meeting called Monday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock, All Saints' Church, by Wesley Kergan, who resigned his chairmanship because he now has his residence within the city limits.

Miss Lydia Weld will continue in office as vice-chairman, and Mrs. J. W. Stilwell as secretary. Stanley Pedader was appointed chairman, A. L. Van Meter, vice chairman of a committee to receive complaints of violations in the zoning ordinances and bring them to the attention of the County Supervisors.

Francis Whitaker, chairman of the fact finding committee on the acquisition of Carmel River Mouth for public ownership, stated that the committee had not had an opportunity to meet as yet, but that he had received information that the county had funds available to purchase Del Monte Beach. He recommended that Carmel River Mouth be acquired by private subscription. Before action is taken on the recommendation, the fact finding committee will meet to pool whatever facts and figures they may have assembled in the meanwhile.

City Clerk Praised By Women Voters In Carmel Tax Report

Costs of maintaining the city government of Carmel were the basis for reports in the two groups in Carmel of the League of Women Voters who are studying the taxes we pay and the tax structure, national, state, and local. Reports were given by Mrs. Harry B. Gantt in Group One and by Mrs. Harold Underwood in Group Two. These two and Mrs. Denny W. Roper consulted the Carmel city clerk, Peter Mawdsley, who obligingly gave several hours of his time to furnish accurate figures and great detail on how Carmel ticks.

Mr. Mawdsley serves also as assessor for the town, and in order to be fair to the citizens he discounts the present highly inflated real estate market by 30%, then as authorized by the state law uses 50% of that—or 35% of the inflated price—as the assessment for basing the tax rate. When the inevitable deflation comes, the assessed value will drop very little or not at all, and the tax rate will not need to be raised. Not all incorporated towns have such a far-sighted and sensible assessment. Personal property is assessed—somewhat arbitrarily—by a "furniture schedule," worked out somewhat systematically and based upon the real estate value; the assessor does not enter the house and list and evaluate the "goods and chattels."

There is no auditor, though Mr. Mawdsley would very much like to have one. There has been no audit of the books for five years or so, but such an audit would be a protection to the city clerk himself. Some type of supplement to the property tax has been considered, such as a sales tax—perhaps one-half per cent—or installing parking meters. The sales tax, to be successful, would have to be Peninsula-wide, or residents would go over the hill to buy.

The city clerk also prepares a budget, unofficially, and submits it to the city council; it does not go into the minutes and is therefore elastic and may be changed if necessary, but serves as a guide as to the needs of the village government. Another of Mr. Mawdsley's duties is to put the budget into effect. Carmel belongs to the sixth class, under the state classification. Over and over again, Mr. Mawdsley emphasized the great waste of time and money in the duplication of work in county and city offices. One assessor's office could do the work for both divisions of government, yet three-fourths of California cities have assessors, while the counties have year-round assessors' offices to do the same work. A difference in valuation does not affect the amount of taxes, but only changes the rate. It was remarked in the League study group that government theory favors centralized assessments as more fair and economical.

As to the personnel of the salaried officials, only the city clerk and the treasurer are elected; others are appointed by the council. There is no fixed standard of qualification for office, no civil service examinations or civil service board, as are necessary in larger cities. The state civil service board would give examinations for local offices if requested. There is need for more men on the police force and for more paid firemen, but the village authorities are making the best of the situation for the present. Members of the League of Women Voters thought the citizens, by their support, might help the council to solve some of these problems. And they all expressed great appreciation for Mr. Mawdsley's kindness in giving so much time for their enlightenment.
